

ANGLO-FRENCH ENTENTE HAS LOST NONE OF ITS VITALITY

King George VI So Claims In Speech at The Paris City Hall

VISIT VERY SIGNIFICANT

French and British Statesmen To Discuss Sudeten Question

By Kenneth T. Downs
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, July 20—(INS)—In what was probably the most important international utterance he has ever made, King George VI. of Great Britain today told a disturbed Europe that the Anglo-French entente "has lost nothing of its vitality."

The King's statement was made to a vast throng, headed by President Albert Lebrun, at the Paris City Hall. At the same time, emphasis was added to the world's significance of the British royal visit, with the formal announcement that statesmen of France and Britain would meet at Luncheon today and discuss the question of the 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans in Czechoslovakia.

After the ceremony at the Arc de Triomphe, where he laid a wreath on the tomb of France's unknown soldier, King George and Queen Elizabeth proceeded through jammed streets to the river Seine, where they went by launch to the city hall.

PARIS, July 20—(INS)—Centers of one of the greatest receptions this city has ever seen, King George and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain rode to the Arc de Triomphe today through crowds so thick that soldiers and police had to push a way for their majesties.

Due to the throngs, the King and Queen were a quarter of an hour late in driving to the scene of the most solemn ceremonial of their three-day visit here—the tomb of the unknown soldier.

Once more the high international significance of the royal visit was stressed by the presence of French general staff officers as King George placed a wreath on the unknown soldier's tomb.

Close to the King at the rites were General Marie-Gustave Gamelin, head of the general staff; and Chief Vice-Admiral Darlan of the Ministry of Marine.

ODD FELLOWS' OUTING TO BE AUGUST SIXTH

The Tenth Annual Affair Is Scheduled at Willow Grove Park

PAST GRANDS SPONSORS

Saturday, August 6th, will be Odd Fellows' Day at Willow Grove Park, when the 195 Units of the I. O. O. F. of Southeastern Pennsylvania, comprising Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Montgomery and Philadelphia counties with a total membership of nearly 25,000, will hold the tenth annual outing.

Sponsored by the Past Grands' Association of this District, these outings have been the signal for the gathering of Odd Fellows, Rebekahs, their families and friends not only from the five counties mentioned, but from Delaware and South Jersey as well, all assembling for a full day and evening of whole-hearted fun and amusement.

A distinctive feature has always been the presence of the orphans of the Order from the Philadelphia Home at Ogontz and Cheltenham avenues, and the Aged Odd Fellows and Rebekahs from their respective Homes, a special committee having them in charge and looking after their transportation and comfort. Amusement tickets are distributed free among the wards of the Order present.

Various kinds of sports have been arranged for and worthwhile prizes will be awarded the successful contestants. The holder of the Harry C. Stephens trophy for field events will defend their title to that honor, and what promises to be a hotly contested baseball game will add a fitting climax to an afternoon of ceaseless activity. Teams from Walker Lodge No. 306 and Mystic Lodge No. 270 will play a match game to decide which team will play Hopkins Lodge No. 87, of Bristol, the present holders of the Past Grands-Medina Sanctum Trophy for base ball.

Medina Sanctum Military Band, of the Ancient Order of Samaritans, will enliven the afternoon by their field music and in the evening the famous music pavillion will once more resound to the stirring marches of Sousa, Pryor and other well-known composers, played by this outstanding organization of 60 talented musicians under the leadership of Samaritan George Altmann.

Students' Feet Amputated When Run Over By Train

DOYLESTOWN, July 20—Gerd Berg, a student at National Farm School, and a refugee in this country from Germany for the past year, had both feet amputated when struck by a train on the Doylestown branch of the Reading Railroad, Monday evening.

Young Berg is in a critical condition in a Lansdale hospital.

Mystery surrounds the cause of the accident, as the formal report of the engineer, in The Reading Company files, indicates that the boy "was lying between the rails" when the train came upon him.

According to his room-mate, Ray Teller, Berg was in his room for the final check-up at 10 o'clock, then later said that he was going to "take a walk," without explaining further than to say that he would be back soon.

The exact time when he left his dormitory cannot be determined, but it was just 11:31 when the accident occurred, according to John Williams, train engineer, and William Dempsey, the conductor. They were in charge of a two-car train that left Doylestown at 11:27.

The boy was on the tracks just at a bend in the right-of-way, south of the school. He was struck before the engineer had time to stop the train. Immediately he was taken on the train, and a telephone call was sent in to Elm Terrace.

Instruments and operating room were prepared at once, and Dr. Frank E. Boston, medical director of the hospital and surgeon, drove the ambulance to the Reading station himself to save time by meeting the train.

Berg declined to comment on the accident to the hospital authorities or to those who picked him up on the tracks.

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

Morrisville will add several more miles to its improved roads with completion of this year's street program. It is predicted if the same amount of work is continued during the next two to three years, Morrisville will have good streets over the entire borough. It has been the practice each year for Common Council to have a number of streets in each ward improved in addition to taking care of the necessary repair work and the maintenance of those improved. Several of the streets have been built with WPA and this year it is expected to obtain some funds from the gasoline tax fund for street work.

"Font Hill," the castle-like residence of the late Dr. Henry C. Mercer, and the Bucks County Historical Society's Buildings were visited on Saturday by members of the Lehigh County Historical Society who held their Summer meeting in the auditorium of the Elkins Building with about 90 people in attendance.

The group, which was welcomed by Dr. B. F. Fackenthal, Jr., of Riegelsville, president of the Bucks County Historical Society, visited Font Hill prior to assembling in the auditorium, where a short business meeting was held.

Judge Frank M. Trexler, of Allentown, the president of the Lehigh County Historical Society, presided.

Charles F. Roberts, secretary of the visiting society, read a paper showing the relations of Bucks and Lehigh counties and referring to the fact that Lehigh county was originally a part of Bucks and other counties.

Following the meeting, 79 of the members enjoyed a dinner at the Fountain House, Doylestown.

Work has been started on the improvements to Island Park, ordered by Common Council. While the shortage of funds will not permit all the work to be done which is needed there, an effort will be made to place the park in good condition. There is some grading to do, tree trimming and the painting of the grandstand.

The Bensalem Division of the Tax Justice League held a Summer meeting in the Episcopal parish house, Eddington, Thursday evening, which was attended by a large gathering. President Edward G. Katzmar was in charge.

Committees were appointed to see the various township boards, especially the road supervisors, the committee being instructed to demand lowering of the assessments on road taxes.

The Bensalem Tax Justice League voted to back the zoning and planning of Bucks County, and will stand

FRANCE WILL EXPAND ITS GOLD PRODUCTION

Is War Measure; Profits To Be Used to Bolster Present Colonial Defenses

CREATES "GOLD OFFICE"

By Kenneth T. Downs
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, July 20—(INS)—France has begun to stimulate gold production for the benefit of her Empire and her Army.

In the fourth and last series of recovery decrees, the Daladier government has created a "gold office" with a capital of 100,000,000 francs which will be administered by energetic Minister of Colonies Mandel.

Aim of the office will be to modernize and stimulate gold production in the colonies, particularly in Guinea. It is expected that production will immediately be increased at the rate of 10,000,000 francs a year. Benefits will be split between the colonial defenses and a program aimed at increasing the standard of living in the colonies.

Most important of the new financial decrees is that authorizing the Bank of France to buy and sell state bonds in the open market.

Sought by various financial officers for the last five years, including the present Foreign Minister Bonnet, this decree is designed to permit the Bank of France to discipline and fortify the money market by trading in government bonds, increasing or decreasing note circulation as needs require.

At the same time a parallel effort, by private individuals to ease the French financial situation is seen in the announcement of a new bank with a capital of 20,000,000 francs to engage in short term operations in the money market.

This bank will be founded under the auspices of the Bank de Paris et de Pays-Bas, Lazard Brothers & Co., and Morgan & Co. The new establishment will be modeled on the London discount houses.

Newton Under Martial Law

Newton, Ia., July 20—Amid wild cheering from CIO adherents, State militia at dawn today placed the Maytag Washing Machine strike area under sweeping martial law, which included suspension of all civil authorities.

The Maytag plant, in operation two days after being strike-bound for ten weeks, immediately was ordered closed to production workers. Back-to-work movement members, some carrying lunch pails, were jeeringly pushed from factory doors.

Company officials announced they had ordered the plant closed by request of Major-General Matthew Tingley, in command of 225 troops, which, with machine guns swinging in their swivels at the head of 39 lorries, arrived shortly after 5 a. m.

Approximately 700 CIO union members, wives and sympathizers were gathered about the factory at an early hour, and a number of disturbances took place before this crowd was broken up.

Corrigan Flares at Doubts

Dublin, July 20—Douglas ("Non-Stop") Corrigan flared up today when doubts were cast upon his story that he flew across the ocean from New York to Dublin "by mistake."

Still steadfast in his refusal of all lucrative stage, screen and writing offers received in the wake of his amazing transatlantic flight in a nine-year-old $900 plane, the California aviator gave vent to his first rush of temper when Dublin newspapermen sought to congratulate him on his election to the Liars' Club of Burlington, Wisconsin.

"That's no compliment," he snapped. Despite offers from Dublin tailors to outfit him in the latest Grafton Street style, Corrigan remained satisfied with his greasy flannel pants and cheap leather flying jacket.

Corrigan remained equally aloof to the offers of five steamship companies to give him free passage back to the United States. "I haven't made up my mind about anything," he said repeatedly. "There is plenty of time."

Automobile Inspection Deadline is July 31st

HARRISBURG, July 20—All motor vehicles, trailers and semi-trailers operated in Pennsylvania after midnight of Sunday, July 31, must bear the current silver-backed green and white inspection sticker, Secretary of Revenue J. Griffith Boardman reminded motorists today.

The only classes of vehicles exempted from the inspection requirements are motorcycles, bicycles with motor attached and trailer or semi-trailers having a chassis and body weight of less than 1000 pounds.

An amendment to the Vehicle Code passed at the last session of the Legislature provides for fixed semi-annual inspection periods instead of optional periods set by proclamation of the Governor. The current inspection period began May 1 and extends, according to law, "until and including the 31st day of July."

"TWISTER" DOES GREAT DAMAGE AT YARDLEY

Trees Uprooted, Roofs Torn From Bldgs.; Fire Starts In A Hotel

HAVOC IN TEN MINUTES

YARDLEY, July 20—A cyclone hit Yardley yesterday afternoon at 2:40, spreading great havoc.

Residents of the town said there was a roar that lasted for about ten minutes during the storm's duration. A parked automobile with the brakes on was blown for some distance down Main street.

Several persons narrowly escaped injury as a portion of the roof of William C. Beener's store was hurled to the street. Portions of the roofs from other homes were dropped into the same thoroughfare.

Trees were uprooted, signs, fences, pieces of wood tossed about, and roofs strewn along Afton avenue, cutting that street off from traffic.

Electric wires were blown down, and broken wires set fire to the Continental Hotel. Yardley Fire Company was called to halt the onrush of the flames.

Properties receiving the most damage along Afton avenue were those of: Charles Tomlinson, St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Yardley Library, the Rev. Walter Pugh, Miss Anna Hackett, John C. McCormick, Sydney Cadwalader, Stephen Twining, A. S. Cadwalader, Warren Fretz, Miss Elizabeth Crayner, George Bennett, William C. Bonner, M. J. Cadwalader and Mrs. H. C. Barnes.

Miss Anna Hackett, who lives in a large frame building occupied by the Bell Telephone Company, described the storm: "I was in the rear of the house," she said, "when the wind began to blow. Before I could close the windows a large rug in the dining room was rolled up by the force of the wind. There appeared to be two heavy clouds approaching one another from opposite directions, and when they met the blow was terrific."

A double garage door from the Yardley Mill along the canal was carried through the air for nearly two blocks, finally settling on Main street, near Afton avenue. The door was twisted to an "L" shape before it dropped.

Houses damaged along Main street included those of: Miss Nellie Gliton, George B. Hackett, Louis Leedom and Arthur W. Blakson.

Damage was also done on Canal street. The homes of Thomas Feehan, Mrs. Jennie Redden, Mrs. William Blaker, and the lumber yard of Louis Leedom were harmed by the freak storm.

Considerable damage was also done along the lake.

Throughout last evening hundreds from lower Bucks county and from nearby points in New Jersey visited the borough, to view the damage.

Crews of workmen were kept busy repairing damage to wires, and still other groups in clearing up the debris.

At points on some thoroughfares vehicles could not continue, and many detours were routed throughout the town.

Raids Harm U. S. Embassy

Madrid, July 20—The unoccupied United States embassy building was struck today when Spanish insurgent artillery trained its guns upon the former capital, coincident with a series of air raids.

One shell struck a room of the embassy building where furniture was stored, after the structure was evacuated in the early days of the war. Another burst in the street outside, shattering plowing through the wall and railings of the embassy garden.

Russia Defies Protests

Tokyo, July 20—Soviet Russia defied Manchukuo and Japanese protests for re-informing the garrison which "invaded Manchukuo" and occupied more than two miles across the Manchukuo frontier, newspaper dispatches said today.

Two divisions of Soviet troops—totalling about 60,000 men—have been massing at Novokievsk, Siberia, it was asserted, instead of recalling the soldiers who started building defenses on Changkifeng hill, two miles inside Manchukuo.

The Soviets allegedly have sent more troops into the country.

LIVERMORE RESIGNS BUCKS SCOUT POST; TO GO TO BUTLER

Resignation of County Scout Executive Accepted With Regret

HAS LED THOUSANDS

Reports Made on Camp Buccou at Executive Board Meeting

"It is with deep regret that the Bucks County Scouting Council is accepting the resignation of Scout Executive 'Uncle Bill' Livermore," said president Dr. A. J. Strathle following the executive board meeting Monday evening at the Doylestown Inn.

"All of us in Bucks County Council wish the continued success of our Executive in his new responsibilities. Mr. Livermore is to become the Scout executive of the Butler-Armstrong Counties Council, Butler, on Tuesday, August 16th. For nearly 12 years 'Uncle Bill' has been with us. He has given leadership to thousands of boys and men in the ideals of Scouting." A testimonial dinner is to be given him on Tuesday evening, August 2nd, 7:30 p. m. (D. S. T.)

Deputy regional Scout executive Harry G. Nagel was present at the meeting and explained the national personnel procedure. A number of questions as to its relationship with the Bucks County Council were asked by Hon. Calvin S. Boyer, and Dr. J. J. Willaman, President Strathle appointed a Selection Committee comprising Hon. Thomas B. Stockham, as chairman, William Burgess, Jr., Edmund H. Lovett, C. Wilson Roberts and Paul R. Sine.

The Peter Hellberg gift of $446 is to start a Foundation for Bucks County Scouting. The suggestion was recommended by the first President of the Council Thomas B. Stockham and Walter W. Pitzonka. The public is to be encouraged to make provisions in their wills to add to the first sum so that there will be an income for Scouting during periods of urgent need.

A report of the National Council Meeting in Cleveland, O., was given by National Headquarters Representative C. A. G. Pease, Quakertown. He remarked on the interesting discussions, and the inspiration of the great gathering. Years ago, Mr. Pease was connected with Scouting in Massachusetts, and is looking forward to being a member of the Bucks County Council.

The New Jersey State Department of Health has announced that the Buccoo Camps water is 100% pure and safe. A specimen report indicates the water is free from any contamination. Fabian, and Paul R. Sine. Considerable interest developed in the Council from the service it rendered in the commemoration of those who attended the Pennsylvania Convention that ratified the National Constitution. District chairman Paul R. Sine reported on Perkasio, regional commodore Thomas B. Stockham on the Doylestown, and Scout Executive Wm. F. Livermore on the Richboro and Hartsville gatherings.

A NEW TRAFFIC PROBLEM

The still unsolved traffic problem, as concerns automobiles, has of late been complicated by a factor which five years ago no road planner could have anticipated—the rise to popularity of the bicycle.

Bicycles multiply at an amazing rate in the parks, on the highways and on the city streets. While the youthful riders generally have with nonchalance the peril of sudden extinction, the motorists, conscious that they may unavoidably deal it to them, drive with a premonition constantly in their hearts, and all too often their fears materialize.

It is clear that this part of the traffic problem must be resolutely tackled along with the rest.

On the highways, where motor traffic is heavy and swift, and where cyclists are so hard to dodge, especially in the dark, the demand can be met by special bicycle trails beside the concrete.

Such trails, like those of the great cycling era in the '90s and the 1900s, can be constructed at trifling cost, and, whatever the cost, as the volume of country riding grows they will soon be amply justified.

What to do with bicycles in the city, where they are a nuisance on the sidewalk and a hair-raising hazard in the street, is a baffling question. But it must be faced.

Bicycles in the city are increasing; apparently they have come to stay and to increase indefinitely; and the accepted truth that we are bound to provide suitable avenues for whatever vehicles the people, according to their means and inclination, choose to ride, applies to them as well as to automobiles.

Some time in the future circumstances may force us to mark off special lanes for bicycles along one or both curbs. While at the moment, this sounds rather fantastic, it may be that eventually no lesser measure will suffice.

LAWYERS

In Germany, the important word nowadays is Ersatz, substitute. Conserving resources, hopeful of self-sufficiency, the autarchy is making wool out of trees, sugar out of coal, precious metal out of dross, what not. In America, the scientists, busy as bees, have gone even further; they make atoms and particles of atoms go to work without pay or rest or fatigue or loss of energy.

This apparent violation of the known laws of physics has been accomplished by putting pieces of metal, in an ultra-frozen condition in a bath of liquid helium, and—but we shall not bother you with the technical details. Suffice it to say that this trick ends existence of normal resistance to the flow of electricity with the result that a current continues to speed around a circuit indefinitely. Instead of shooting about at random, the electrons are brought into alignment like soldiers, frozen, solidified in place, eyes right, and mutually exchanging the electrical current without spending energy.

The demonstration of his phenomenon before the American Physical Society may be beyond the capacity of the layman to understand, but it may give birth to the idea that the quest for the fourth dimension and perpetual motion may not be such a foolish fancy after all.

to that "where to go and what to do" problem this summer. In fact, unusual and outstanding features there are crowding so closely upon each other's heels that one is tempted to put a daily visit to Willow Grove Park on the "must" list.

There's the spectacular display of fire-fighting men and equipment on Wednesday, July 27th. Under the sponsorship of Abington Firemen's Association—Edwin H. Geissler, chairman—volunteer fire companies from eastern Pennsylvania and nearby New Jersey points will assemble in Willow Grove Park on the 27th to stage a demonstration of efficient fire-fighting. Spectacular fireworks of unusual design, a big parade and a sensational flood-lighted water barrage are but a few high-lights of this thrilling event.

Every Friday night at 8:15 in the music pavilion, WFIL's beloved Uncle Jim conducts "We Know the Answers" and amateur contests for adults and children. Register in advance at the park's administration building if you wish to enter these contests. Valuable prizes are given to the winners in each contest and admission is free.

In response to popular demand, Jim Fettes and his "swingsters" have returned to the ballroom to play for the dances given every night except Sunday and Monday. Dance contests for prizes are given every Friday night.

YOUR Electric Wiring IS LIKE A TREE!

- 60-Ampere Service
- Three 25-Ampere Sub-Feeders
- 10 Final Branch Circuits
- Range Circuit
- Water Heater Circuit

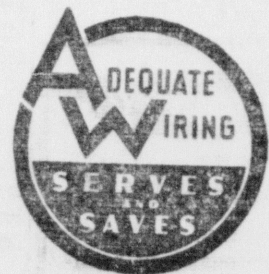

Here's an easy way to visualize adequate wiring! Study the tree above. The broad, sturdy trunk supplies life and strength to the branches. In your house, adequate wiring and plenty of copper serve as the trunk that provides a full supply of electricity for all the electric appliances you'll ever want.

Investigate and see if your wiring is adequate and sufficient with—60-ampere service; three 25-ampere sub-feeders; and the final branch circuits stretching out to convenience outlets. Call your neighborhood electrical contractor, or your Philadelphia Electric Company office and ask for a thorough check.

BRISTOL
Ordinarily, Omar Kiam creates clothes for the modern woman. But for Samuel Goldwyn's production, "The Adventures of Marco Polo," the famous Hollywood designer had to create clothes not only for the women but for the men as well. For instance, he made 10 hats for Gary Cooper who plays the title role in the rollicking adventurous romance.

Overlooking Penn's Woods and Waters

Tourists are just discovering the breath-taking magnificence of Penn's View, near Coburn, Centre county, shown above. Here from a rocky promontory the visitor looks nearly straight down on Penn's valley and Penn's creek, a mysterious stream issuing from Penn's cave nearby. The site can be reached from Route 45 near Millheim, and from U. S. Route 322 at Milroy or Rayona.

which comes to the Bristol Theatre, today.

When Goldwyn dropped the picture's costume problems in Kiam's lap, he didn't know that the ladies of Kublai Khan's court were long on necklines and short on embroidery. He put in a month finding out.

The costumes worn by even the lowliest peasants in "The Adventures of Marco Polo" are true to the period they represent. Kiam spent a small fortune of Goldwyn's money to make them accurate. He kept the silk worms working overtime. He had every Hollywood armorer forging chain mail for the soldiers. He had a couple of hundred seamstresses plying their needles. He had dozens of designers making his rough sketches into finished patterns.

Editor of The Courier:

Two years ago this Spring I was asked by Mr. Snyder to help in the organization of a nursery school for Bristol children. I was delighted to assist in such a worthy project but Mary, Lehman, Mrs. Eastburn, and all was unfortunately unable to do much because I had to move to Washington at that time. The little that I had to do with it was most discouraging, because of lack of funds and public interest, and I wondered if Bristol would ever manage to have a nursery school at all.

Last week I had an opportunity to visit the nursery school for the first time since my return from the South. I am so delighted with what has been accomplished that I feel that I must make a public commendation of Bristol's truly fine nursery school. When I walked in and saw the large group of orderly, well-cared-for children, resting or eating substantial food in their charming surroundings, and realized how much of the cunning furniture had been made from old orange crates, and second-hand toys, I was simply astonished. One has to visit the school to appreciate how very attractively and artistically it has been decorated, and how wisely it is adapted to the needs of little children.

the other public-spirited people of Bristol who have raised the funds to make such a useful thing possible.

While I was South my little son attended the Nursery School of the University of Tennessee, which is considered the best in the South, and I want the people of Bristol to realize that right here at home I found a nursery school which I consider to be its equal in every respect except de luxe equipment, and fancy brick building. I consider it one of the finest things that has been accomplished by the people of Bristol during my lifetime.

Very truly yours,
JEAN W. ELLIS.

GOOD PLAYING NEEDED FOR LANDRETH VICTORY

The Washington Black Senators, most recent addition to the ranks of the Negro National League, are rapidly developing into one of the best aggregations in Negro baseball, so Landreth will have to play good fast ball if they are going to win tonight's game at Landreth's Ball Park.

Despite the fact that this is the first season of competition for the Black Senators, to date they have already shown plenty of promise to class them as one of the factors to be considered in determining the Negro championship this season.

The Club is managed by Ben Taylor, who has seen service with various League teams. He was secured by the Washington management to convert this new array of talent into a winning combination. And, he is certainly doing a fine job.

The majority of the men comprising the Black Senators were formerly with other Negro League clubs, plus a few promising youngsters. The various Loop members co-operated with Washington in building an outstanding club, but quite a number of the players could not be secured before the Senators parted with some financial consideration.

Following are the outstanding men in the Washington line-up: Buddy Burbage, cf, formerly of Ed. Bolden's Phila. Stars; "Showboat" Thomas, ranked with such first sackers as Jim West of the Elite Giants and Buck Leonard of the Homestead Grays; Zollic Wright, sensational right fielder of the Elite Giants; Bill Casey, dependable and hustling catcher from the Phila. Stars; Jim Roberts of the Philly Stars, and Lamon Yokeley of Baltimore Black Sox, pitchers.

Washington's array of performers combine excellent, sensational, and dependable fielding, timely and heavy hitting and a hurling department which displays speed, change of pace, experience, curves and control.

The infield includes "Showboat" Thomas, 1b; Jimmy Ford, 2b; Buddy Sadler, ss; and Ralph Long, 3b. The heavy hitting outfield trio consists of Buddy Burbage, Zollic Wright and John Hoskins.

Bill Casey capably handles the slants of Roberts, Yokeley, Johnson, Hayeslet and Richardson.

Manager Landreth expects to start Mel Heisley who will be going after his fourth win of the season and he is in good shape for this game. Should he need help, Al Carey and Walter Masterson will be on hand to help out and of course, Bill Harvi will be behind the plate where his catching is first class and he is also hitting almost .425.

If the ball fans want to see a good game they should be on hand this evening at 6.15.

NOT HIS AUTO

LITCHFIELD, Conn. — (INS) — It was a "mystery" for a while but then the "mystery" just evaporated. Fred Perrett, of Bantam, parked his automobile, went shopping and on his return found his car gone. Police started a search and the next morning found the car in the garage of a Litchfield resident. Explained the resident: He had gone shopping, finished, and driven off in his car—at least in what he thought was his car. But it was Perrett's and the Litchfield man's auto was parked all night in front of a Bantam store.

10,000 LARGE-MOUTHED BASS PLACED IN CANAL

The Board of Fish Commissioners has delivered from the Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association, a consignment of 10,000 large mouth bass which were stocked in the Delaware Division of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company Canal.

This stocking was made as a result of requests by the Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association to Charles A. French, Commissioner of Fisheries, who after investigating the condition of the canal, recommended that it be immediately included in the stocking program.

Frank McKeough, representative of the fish commission, who accompanied the shipment, remarked favorably on the canal as a bass stream, and allowed the fish to be planted at numerous intervals along the canal insuring an even distribution including Bristol, Edgely, Tullytown, Wheatshoe, and Morrisville. He stated that inasmuch as the bass which were planted were not yet of legal size it would be necessary to show extreme care in handling and returning all undersized fish to the water.

The Bristol Association strongly urges that in view of the generosity and co-operation shown by the Board of Fish Commissioners in considering their requests, that the fishermen will support the board's work by conforming to the daily and season creel limits, by killing only those legal fish which are to be retained, by carefully removing all undersized fish from their hooks and returning them to the stream unharmed. It is advisable to wet the hands while handling any fish that is to be returned to the water. If the hook is deeply imbedded, cut it loose rather than kill the fish, it is possible for the fish to disengage the hook after it is free.

Report your fish kill so that the Board of Fish Commissioners may have a more intimate knowledge of conditions and more accurately plan their restocking program for the future.

ARMSTRONG TRAINS FOR BOUT WITH LOU AMBERS

By Lawton Carver
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, July 20 — (INS) — Weighing 140 pounds, and, therefore, close to the welterweight division limit, Henry Armstrong insisted today that he still could make the featherweight limit of 126, as he began training for a title bout with lightweight champion Lou Ambers. After that he is going to train for a featherweight defense.

That's all very confusing. But the point is, the little brown man from Los Angeles already is the welterweight and featherweight champion and he expects to defeat Ambers on August 10th and thus become the first man in pugilistic history to hold three titles at the same time. The odds already favor him by as much as three to one.

Moreover, according to Armstrong himself, he will do the unheard of in September and, at Los Angeles, make a defense of that featherweight crown, which he won last Fall by way of starting his sweep through the crown-wearers. His opponent in the coast battle will be the outstanding challenger available at the moment. After that he will begin defending the welterweight crown at regular intervals and the lightweight title, too, if he wins the latter.

The amazing little fighter who can vary his weight by as much as 10 pounds—if he really can still make 126 as he says—has never had much trouble with the scales up to now and already has fattened up or trained down by several pounds to fit the situation of the moment. As a welterweight, however, he always will be spotting opponents much the best of it in weight. He is at his best around 133, or 14 pounds below the welter limit.

Thus for Ambers, he will need only to take off a few pounds to make the lightweight limit of 135, then take off 11 more to make the feather limit of 126 for his coast battle, and after that fatten up to as high as he can get and still be good for a welter defense.

He expects to belt Ambers right out of there next month but thinks it will be a fairly tough job. Today he revealed two things that may be significant according to the way you interpret them.

In the first place, he feels that, while Ambers can't take as much punishment as Barney Ross, the former will be harder to tag and therefore may stretch the fight out several rounds farther than most observers expect it to go.

He then revealed that during the last few rounds against Ross, from whom he won the welter title recently, he took it easy, because the wilting, battered and dazed champion had a bad eye.

"Ross was so far gone and so game that I quit hitting him on his bad eye and quit slugging him as I did in the early rounds for fear I would injure him, and I just coasted on in with a decision," said Henry.

FISH STORY

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(INS)—Tish, here comes another fish yarn. But Elwood Hansen of Oakland swears it is the truth. He said he was rowing Jean-Baptiste Mesnard, King of Clear Lake one moonlight night as he enjoyed his favorite brand of cigar. As he took a deep drag on the stogie, it glowed a brilliant crimson. Zowie, a black bass jumped at the glow! Hansen said the fish hit him in the face.

FRENCH STEEPJACK DEAD

PARIS — (INS) — Known as "the man who fixed the lightning conductors on the Eiffel Tower summit," it is the truth. He said he was rowing Jean-Baptiste Mesnard, King of French steepjacks, fell to his death here recently. Mesnard was working on the roof of a factory but 180 feet off the ground—nothing compared to the 990 feet height of the Eiffel Tower—when he fell. He was 56. His son is carrying on the business undeterred by his father's fate.

LORAIN, O. — (INS) — Sixty-one-year-old Thomas James still marvels at his good fortune in escaping death twice within seconds. First, James' machine was hit by a railroad train. James was thrown clear of the wreckage but directly into the path of a train speeding from the opposite direction. He scrambled to safety. Altogether he suffered three fractured ribs and a back injury.
